

California Lutheran University, the University of Denver, the University of Florida, the University of Vermont, and the University of Wisconsin-Madison are hosting a panel of current students to answer pressing questions about student life and learning on their campuses...

Wednesday, April 28 (two times, same content). The sessions will be in a 5-for-5 format: each institution will spend 5 minutes telling you what makes our campuses great places to live and to learn, followed by us answering student questions.
